victories in key presidential election states Friday the most important being a federal appeals court ruling that in vaccines thimerosal concerns vaccine - thimerosal use in medical products is very safe data from many studies show no evidence of harm caused by the low doses of thimerosal in vaccines, appeals court strikes down north carolina’s voter id law - voting rights activists scored legal victories in key presidential election states Friday the most important being a federal appeals court ruling that